BEING HEALTHY

Although there have been significant improvements in human rights for lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans and queer 2SLGBTQIA+ people, their needs are often overlooked in our health and social service systems. We all deserve to be healthy, regardless of our age, race, ethnicity, income, ability, sexual orientation, gender expression or gender identity.

Being healthy means taking care of our physical, emotional, sexual, psychological and spiritual needs.

GETTING GOOD HEALTH CARE

For gay men and other men who have sex with men, getting good health care can sometimes be a challenge. Health care providers may be homophobic or they may not know much about your health concerns. This can make it tough to come out to your health care provider. But it is important for everyone to go for regular check-ups and to get professional and proactive care. Here are some suggestions to improve the quality of your health care:

- Ask other 2SLGBTQIA+ people about their health care providers and who they recommend, or check prideHealth’s directory of health and wellness providers
- Check out the office space and look for 2SLGBTQIA+ friendly posters, brochures, magazines or other signs of a 2SLGBTQIA+ positive environment
- Listen for how the provider speaks with you and whether you are encouraged to talk about your concerns in a culturally sensitive and nonjudgmental manner
- If you feel safe, come out to your provider so that you can be open about discussing the issues that are of concern to you and they can better understand how to help you stay healthy or get better
- If you do not feel comfortable with a provider, look for another so that you can get the best health care possible

CANCER

Cancer screening rates are low among LGBTQ communities. Screening means getting checked for cancer before you have any symptoms. Screening can stop cancer before it starts or if found, treat it early so that intervention works.

- Smoking increases the risk for lung cancer, and may increase the risk of other types of cancer
- People who have anal sex are at higher risk for contracting HPV, which can lead to anal cancer
- Some providers recommend that people who have anal sex get regular anal pap screening
- Regular screenings for prostate, testicular and colon cancer may be recommended based on age and risk
- Speak to your general practitioner about cancer screening, and insist that you receive the screenings that are appropriate for you. If you don’t have a general practitioner, there are some screenings that are available without a referral.

• Healthy bodies come in all shapes and sizes
• Gay men may excessively diet or exercise in order to achieve community standards of physical beauty
• Some gay men’s communities celebrate large bodies which may put them at risk for diabetes, high blood pressure and heart disease
• Nutrition and weight concerns can become unhealthy if they make you feel depressed or cause physical harm

- For more information please contact Eating Disorders Nova Scotia by e-mail: info@eatingdisordersns.ca, or phone 902-229-8436

• Health and medical needs can profoundly affect self-esteem, identity and self-acceptance
- Violence and micro-aggression can further contribute to mental distress and challenges with coming out to friends, family and society

TOBACCO USE & SMOKING

Research indicates that 2SLGBTQIA+ communities use tobacco at rates that are two to three times higher than those of the general population.

Reasons for this include:
- Used as a coping mechanism for high levels of stress
- Tobacco industry marketing specifically to 2SLGBTQIA+ communities
- Desire to belong to a group
- 2SLGBTQIA+ people might not see themselves represented in mainstream anti-smoking campaigns

If you are interested in reducing tobacco use or making a quit attempt, there are resources and through the stop smoking services offered at the Nova Scotia Menatl Health and Addictions programs: https://www.nshealth.ca/mental-health-addictions

BODY IMAGE

• Gay men have many of the same health needs as the general population, but they may also have specific health care needs. Gay men and other men who have sex with men may also experience negative attitudes and discrimination when seeking health care. It can be difficult to find knowledgeable and respectful health care services, but things are improving as prideHealth works with providers to increase capacity to deliver quality care. This brochure outlines some of the health issues that are of concern to gay men and MSM.

EMOTIONAL & MENTAL HEALTH

Mental health is shaped by a sense of self-worth, the level of stress that people are subjected to, and the inclusiveness of their workplace and community.

- Gay men and MSM experience higher rates of depression, anxiety, and suicide than the general population
- This can be due to internalized, societal and institutional homophobia/transphobia

- These stresses can profoundly affect self-esteem, identity and self-acceptance
- Violence and micro-aggression can further contribute to mental distress and challenges with coming out to friends, family and society

Finding support and help:
- You might want to talk to family and friends or peers in a support group
- Explore various coping strategies to deal with stresses and manage self-care such as meditation, physical activity and making time for activities you enjoy

Please contact the Mental Health Mobile Crisis team if you are in need of urgent care at 902-429-8167 or 1-888-429-8167.

RELATIONSHIP HEALTH

Intimate partner violence does occur in relationships between men. Abuse between men is often dismissed, misunderstood or trivialized. Your health care provider may not ask you about your relationship(s), but you can speak to them if you have any worries about your interactions with your partner(s).

Signs of intimate partner violence may include:
- Your partner gets jealous; makes fun of you; threatens to “out” you or harm you; misgenders you; tries to control your activities, finances, or other relationships; withholds access to medication; pressures or forces you to have sex; is physically violent; or acts in other ways that make you feel unsafe
- Your partner uses one or more parts of your identity (like your gender identity, sexual orientation, race, class, age, culture, religion, spirituality, immigration status, HIV status, body size, appearance, etc.) to manipulate, control, or shame you
- You feel depressed, anxious, angry, afraid, guilty, ashamed or suicidal

• Negotiate safely with your partner(s), and what are the acceptable levels of risk for all persons involved
• Use barriers such as gloves, dams and condoms with body parts and sex toys - many sexual health clinics and other health care facilities offer these free of charge
• Clean sex toys before sharing with a partner
• Be aware that the use of alcohol and drugs before or during sex, sharing needles, a few BDS/M/kit activities, and some sex work may involve a greater level of risk and need to include negotiation
• Get vaccinated against Hepatitis A and B
• If you are HIV positive, ask your health care provider whether PrEP (pre-exposure prophylaxis) or PEP (post-exposure prophylaxis) would be helpful for you for HIV prevention

ALCOHOL & DRUG USE

• Gay men are more likely to use alcohol and other recreational drugs than heterosexual men
• Alcohol or drugs are sometimes used to cope with homo/transphobia, discrimination and depression
• If you use drugs, learning about the effects and side effects can help make your use safer
• Ask yourself whether your drug use is affecting your health, relationships, job, studies or finances
• Consider whether your use is leading you to take risks, sexual or otherwise, that you wouldn’t take if you were sober
• There are many types of harm reduction programs; your health care provider can help choose what’s right for you

SEXUAL HEALTH

A person’s risk of exposure to sexually transmitted infections (STI) and blood-borne viruses (BBV) depends on the body parts and fluids involved in sexual activity with another person, rather than a person’s identity. When discussing your sexual health with a health care provider, make sure to describe your sexual behaviour and ask about the risks of specific sex acts in order to avoid any assumptions.

To reduce your risk of STIs and BBV’s:
- Negotiate safely with your partner(s), and what are the acceptable levels of risk for all persons involved
- Use barriers such as gloves, dams and condoms with body parts and sex toys - many sexual health clinics and other health care facilities offer these free of charge
- Clean sex toys before sharing with a partner
- Be aware that the use of alcohol and drugs before or during sex, sharing needles, a few BDS/M/kit activities, and some sex work may involve a greater level of risk and need to include negotiation
- Get vaccinated against Hepatitis A and B
- If you are HIV positive, ask your health care provider whether PrEP (pre-exposure prophylaxis) or PEP (post-exposure prophylaxis) would be helpful for you for HIV prevention

Some trans people taking hormones may still be able to get pregnant or inseminate their partner. To reduce the risk of unplanned pregnancy, use a condom or other barrier method, or ask your health care provider.
